GUIDE TO REGISTRATION AS A FISH PROCESSOR

Definition of Fish Processing:

The Fisheries Management Act 2007 defines a fish processor as:

“a person who for the purpose of trade or business process, purchases or obtains fish.”

and processing is defined as:

“scaling, gilling, gutting, filleting, freezing, chilling, packing or other activity involved in preparing fish for sale.”

This means that any person who purchases, for the purpose of trade or business, from a licence holder must register as a fish processor.

NOTE:

Processors may vary assets during the year by making an application to the Minister. All application forms are available from:

<http://www.pir.sa.gov.au/fishing> or 8204 1370

It is an offence to use any assets in connection with processing fish unless the assets are specified on the certificate of registration.

GUIDELINES RELATING TO FISH PROCESSING IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA

A fish processor is a person who, for a commercial purpose, processes, stores, transports or deals with fish or other aquatic resources.

ANY PERSON WHO TRADES IN FISH IS REQUIRED TO KEEP A RECORD OF ALL FISH PURCHASED OR OBTAINED.

(Section 17 of the Fisheries Management [Fish Processors] Regulations 2017)

There are three classes of fish processors in South Australia:

(Refer to Section 62 of the Fisheries Management Act 2007 [attached] to determine whether registration is required):

1. REGISTERED FISH PROCESSOR (FP – Full Fee Paying)

A Registered Fish Processor may buy and sell product from:

- A licensed commercial fisher
- A licensed aquaculture authority holder
- Another registered fish processor (FP)

In order to process Abalone, Prawn or Rock Lobster (as a first receiver in the supply chain), these species must be endorsed on the FP registration. This can be organised through PIRSA Fisheries & Aquaculture Leasing & Licensing on (08) 8204 1370 by paying an additional fee.

Due to legislative requirements, wild caught quota species (i.e. Abalone, Blue Crab, Pipi, Mud Cockle, Rock Lobster, Sardine) must only be consigned by a commercial fisher directly to a registered fish processor in the first instance.

2. REGISTERED FISH PROCESSOR (FX – Restricted/Concessional)

A person or company may process fish taken under a:

- Fishing authority (commercial fishing licence); or
- Aquaculture licence

All fish processed/consigned under this form of registration must be sold directly to:

- Pubs, clubs, hotels, restaurants, cafes etc. (where the product is on-sold directly as a meal or part of a meal)

NOTE: A person or company must NOT sell this product to a registered fish processor (FP).

3. UN-REGISTERED FISH PROCESSOR

A person or company may only purchase fish from:

- A Registered Fish Processor (Full Fee paying Registration - FP)
- A Fish Wholesaler (provided the fish were sourced from an FP processor during the processing chain)

Further queries may be directed to PIRSA Fisheries & Aquaculture Leasing & Licensing on (08) 8204 1370 in business hours.

PIRSA Fisheries and Aquaculture staff are not able to provide legal advice or interpret legislation. You should obtain your own independent advice in relation to those matters.
